In duration column, it was observed that the nulls had values which were written in corresponding ratings column, i.e- you can't expect ratings to be in min. So the duration column nulls are replaced by corresponding values in ratings column

#date added column is imputed on the basis of release year,i.e- suppose there's a null for date_added
#when release year was 2013.So below piece of code just checks the mode of date added for release year=2013
and imputes in place of nulls the corresponding mode

for i in df_final[df_final['date_added'].isnull()]['release_year'].unique():
    imp=df_final[df_final['release_year']==i]['date_added'].mode().values[0]

#country column is imputed on the basis of director,i.e- suppose there's a null for country
#when we have a director whose other movies have a country given.So below piece of code just checks the mode of #country for the director
and imputes in place of nulls the corresponding mode

So we imputed the country column on the basis of directors whose other movie titles had countries given. But there might be directors who have only one occurrence in our data. In that scenario, I have used Actors as a basis. i.e- for this Actor majorly acts in movies of which country? Imputation has been done on this basis. For remaining rows, country has been filled as Unknown Country for i in df_final[df_final['country'].isnull()]['Actors'].unique():

    if i in df_final[~df_final['country'].isnull()]['Actors'].unique():

United States is leading across both TV Shows and Movies, UK also provides great content across TV Shows and Movies. Surprisingly India is much more prevalent in Movies as compared TV Shows.

Moreover the number of Movies created in India outweigh the sum of TV Shows and Movies across UK since India was rated as second in net sum of whole content across Netflix.

▼ Questions to be Explored Now for Recommendations

- 1) So this time, the granularity level is country and analysis of TV Shows/Movies the country brings. I am going to consider only the top countries individually for TV Shows and Movies. There are definitely some common countries too which bring out quality content in both TV Shows and Movies.
- 2) Which Genres do these countries offer and what are the intended audiences(Ratings) which are popular in Netflix?
- 3) In case of Movies, what is the duration/length of movies which makes them special and depicts attention span?
- 4) Who are the popular actors/directors across TV Shows and Movies in these countries?
- 5) In what time of the year, people tend to watch movies and shows in these countries?
- 6) Popular Actor and Director Combinations in these countries

So it seems plausible to conclude that the popular ratings across Netflix includes Mature Audiences in TV Shows and those appropriate for people over 14 in Movies in India.

Now this indeed seems to be the case. Indian TV Shows in Netflix are without a shadow of doubt intended for Mature Audiences while Movies for over 14 years of age.

In India, TV Shows were increasingly being added till 2020, though the addition of shows reduced in 2021.

In India, Movies were increasingly added till 2018 but it has been a huge downhill since then. Now that's preposterous, since something has to be recommended to the Netflix Team with regards to that.

TV Shows are added in Netflix by a tremendous amount in April in India

Movies are added in Netflix in India by a tremendous amount in first week/last month of current year and first month of next year

The understandable trend amongs movies and TV Shows across India in Netflix is the reduction of movies after 2020

▼ Recommendations

- 1) The most popular Genres across the countries and in both TV Shows and Movies are Drama, Comedy and International TV Shows/Movies, so content aligning to that is recommended.
- 2) Add TV Shows in July/August and Movies in last week of the year/first month of the next year.
- 3) For USA audience 80-120 mins is the recommended length for movies and Kids TV Shows are also popular along with the genres in first point, hence recommended.
- 4) For UK audience, recommended length for movies is same as that of USA (80-120 mins)
